

PETA Supporters Have Blood on Their Hands.

As Americans learn more about People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals and its eccentric founder, Hollywood stars should know the whole story. Despite the well-known animal rights group's $30 million budget, it spends very little actually caring for adoptable animals. Instead, it kills them. By the thousands.

Government records show that between 1998 and 2005, PETA killed more than 14,000 dogs and cats at its Virginia headquarters.* (The group refuses to release its 2006 numbers.) In 2005, PETA killed 90 percent of the pets in its care. Some were thrown in trash dumpsters. Most were incinerated. PETA's donors footed the bill.

That's not "ethical." It's hypocritical.

* 1998-2005 "Animal Record" reports, Virginia Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services

Find out what PETA doesn't want you to know:

PETAkillsAnimals.com